Season of Love

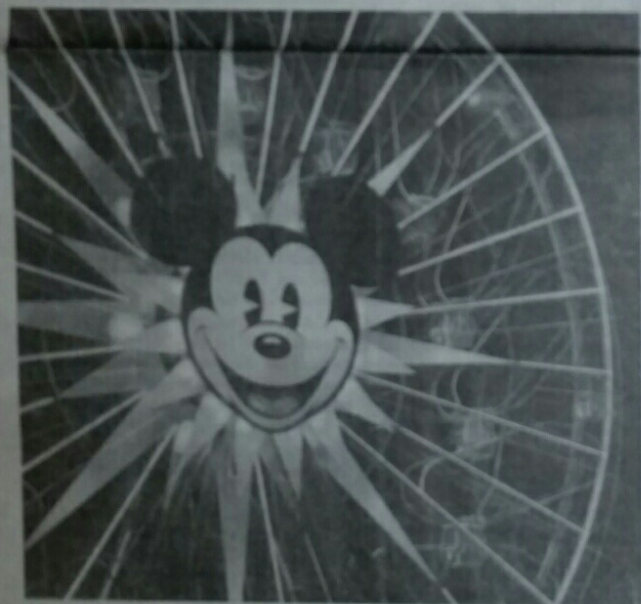

Indeed, hearts are aflame on beautiful Buena Vista Street, and citizens from Elysian Arcade to Carthay Circle are embracing the optimism of a new year to spread the love. And with Valentine's Day getting its wiggle on, don't be surprised by the extra tip of a cap, wink of an eye, or even a romantic confession from a secret admirer. And how!

Yes, even the local businesses are partial to the passion during this season of sweethearts. With Trolley Treats offering its delectable chocolate covered berries and Valentine-themed rice crispy treats, and Elias & Company presenting its nifty line of true love T-shirts and sweatshirts by HARVEY's, there are modes aplenty to let that special someone know you carry the torch for them.

Speaking of crushes, be sure to show your roll at Carthay Circle for the rock, whistle, plunk, and boom of Fine & Dine. This band of jolly musicians and their beauteous lead singer Dine just up the streets for lovers of all walks. Just keep your distance, fun times, leading is expected.

So whether it's a moonlit stroll or a morning cup of Joe, there are opportunities for love and romance around every corner on Buena Vista Street this time of year. And keep those eyelids peeled for the small, little details, too, fellow citizens.

Paradise Pier Launches Fun Wheel Challenge

Circle up, fans of fun! Ring in the new year with a nifty new experience! That's right, just around the bend in Paradise Pier comes the wild, whimsical "Fun Wheel Challenge" - an interactive, Wi-Fi game of skill, utilizing the lights of Mickey's Fun Wheel from the "World of Color" viewing area.

So round up your wits, circumvent the pitfalls, and combine your fellow challenge-takers, be the first to correctly complete the sequence of colors using your smart-device and be awarded personal control of the lights on the wheel for the next 30 seconds. And just to keep you in the loop, be sure to sport those rippy "Glow with the Show Ears" for a few shiny surprises as well.

The "Fun Wheel Challenge" begins 30 minutes prior to the first "World of Color" show each night on Paradise Pier. Just join the "PierCraze" Wi-Fi network with your personal device. No apps or downloads are required.

"In Food"

with Inglebert Irving
Carthay Circle
Restaurant
Date with a Grand Dame

Dateless on Valentine's Day. Yet again. Go figure. Well, this arrogant, pretentious food critic wasn't about to let it deny him an evening of romance. Despite the chiding phone call from dear mum on how all her flat mates now have grandchildren. Indeed, no, I was off to the exquisite Carthay Circle Restaurant, and I would even leave the red pen of sardonicism at home.

Upon arrival, I was seated in a corner of the main dining area, and like a luminous movie star who just so happens to also be a dear friend, the establishment captivated me, as usual. The ambient lighting, the warm, detailed décor, the salute to Hollywood throughout, and of course the friendly staff all took me to another time and place where happiness and beauty are unquestioned.

I started with the bold, perfectly chewy, Ginger Pork Pot Stickers, which I confess

I have ordered in the past. But it was my night, and I would do what I chose. I started with a crisp and zesty Carthay Salad, and then the pièce de résistance, the Sesame Soy-Glazed Shrimp Bay Salmon. To say I was engaged would've been an understatement. As a contrarian, the Carthay and I are truly an old married couple at this point in our stories, knowing each other's whims and triggers before we can even think them. So when the server presented me a Majestic Chocolate Moose Crunch Cake before I could even order it, I knew I was in for the kiss good night I have always desired. And, indeed, I was right.

While I'm quite aware I took the night off, dear readers, I assure you the next establishment I visit will not fare so well. As always, I give the Carthay Circle Restaurant my highest recommendation and suggest a visit right away. Priority seating is recommended, and World of Color dining packages are available as well. For World of Color dining package information and Carthay Circle Restaurant reservations call the dine line at (714) 781-DINE.

Inglebert also recommends:

- Heart-shaped Ravioli with Tomato Sausage, Arugula and Champagne in Broadbent Press and Paris.
- Hand-dipped vanilla ice cream bar with a variety of toppings at Churros de la Buena Vista.
- Heart and teddy bear-shaped watermelon, handcrafted and baked daily offered at Boulder's Bread Cakes on the Wheel and Mortimer's Market on Buena Vista Street.
- Chocolate fudge with Espresso Caramel with Raspberry or White Creamy Truffles.
- Light-fused Brioche Bread Pudding with house-style beef gravy, roasted potatoes, peas & carrots and Pomegranate at Elbow V&B House.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

While I have pilgrimaged to the "City of Brotherly Love" and often left my heart in San Francisco, there is no place I adore more than my dear home here on Buena Vista Street. I would like to formally announce that I will be staying home during this season of love, and I will spend it photo-documenting as many interactions with visitors as possible.

Dearly,
Phiphi Francis

Dear Editor,

After much deliberation, I've decided to issue myself a Good Behavior Citation. I'm issuing it to myself for issuing so many Good Behavior Citations to the remarkable citizens and visitors of Buena Vista Street. I do sort of hold the department record. Anyhoo, the citation must be corroborated before it can become valid, so I wanted to declare it here. I hope you don't mind.

Officially,
Calvin the Cop

Dear Editor,

Please let all the nice people out there know I have a special Valentine for Calvin the Cop. It's from a secret admirer, though. Unfortunately, I haven't been able to locate Calvin. The admirer doesn't have an address for him either. If anyone should cross paths with Calvin, please let me know where he is.

Secretly,
Molly the Messenger

Who Knew?

The Buzz with Gayle & Gail Romance Perchance?

Sure, every gal enjoys a box of chocolates and a bouquet of roses this time of year, but the real cat's pajamas is the destination. What? Is that doubt we hear, dearies? Betcha remember where your first date was. First kiss. Honeymoon. Indeed, we're talking places so romantic they make time stand still and let you know anything is possible. Well, those kinds of places just so happen to exist here. And we just so happen to be the experts on them. So grab that latte and Valentine inspired cupcake at the Fiddler, Fifer, & Practical Café and pull up a chair, lovely readers. We're about to give you the skinny.

First off, the obvious. Seaside stroll. Paradise Pier just so happens to have the perfect boardwalk for the occasion. Let the moon rise, grab a soft-serve from Paradise Pier Ice Cream Company, and win your honey the big prize at the Boardwalk Games. If you aren't walking hand-in-hand into that starry night, then we aren't G & G.

Hand-in-fin more your roll? Grab a clamshell at nearby The Little Mermaid - Ariel's Undersea Adventure for a tunnel of love experience all its own. Indeed, hearts will melt as Eric and Ariel discover first love, and crooner Sebastian will set the mood for you and yours alone with the mega-hit "Kiss the Girl."

But of course, nothing says romance like a bubbly flute of champagne. In a vineyard. Did we mention, in a vineyard? That's right, the Golden Vine Winery with its rolling hills of grapes, wine bars, restaurants, and Mediterranean-style piazzas are ripe for any love's harvest.

Need something a little splashier? Catch a showing of the nighttime spectacular World of Color on Paradise Bay. Hold your better half close during the classic love stories sequence, and you'll swear the lagoon is glowing just for the two of you.

Not enough to get you off the drawing board? Then take your sweetheart over to the Animation Building in Hollywood Land. Off the Page is featuring romance as its theme all year long, and featured artists are sketching classic Disney couples, as inspired by their own, personal love stories. Art and love, ahhh.

Now get out there and go weak in the knees, dearies. Find your special place. This time of year doesn't last long, but true love lasts forever. And sure, you can thank us later. Until next time, we'll see you on the streets. And as always, your secrets are safe with us.

Tourists Zoom to Kingswell Camera Shop!

Just inside Buena Vista Street's Elysian Arcade, the picturesque Kingswell Camera Shop has been helping visitors capture vacation memories for years. And while California provides the majestic mountains, sunny beaches, towering forests, and bustling boulevards tourists all love to visit, it's the experts at Kingswell who know just how to get those images back home again.

Sure, they've always provided dandy frames, zippy photo albums, and convenient camera supplies, but now they've even made the image capturing process easier. Say how, says you? Well, who wants to lug around that clunky tripod? That oversized powder flash gun? Exactly, dear readers. Which is why Kingswell has employed its own team of Disney PhotoPass™ photographers!

All you have to do is enjoy your vacation and let these keen-eyed image takers do the rest. They'll snap your shots and provide you with a Disney PhotoPass™ Card containing all of your unforgettable photos. At the end of your trip, zip over to Kingswell and they'll process everything you need!

Kingswell Camera Shop operates daily from park opening to one-hour after park closing.

Five & Dime

This talented bunch of working-class buddies played their way down Route 66 to Los Angeles, hoping for their big break. These swingin' "hepcats" jazz up 1920s & '30s tunes from the back of their makeshift jalopy and cheer anyone who'll sing and dance along.
